DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-20 are presented for examination.
2. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed. The current title is imprecise.

Specification

3. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

4. The disclosure is object to because of the following informalities: the specification must identify any related application/patents by the serial number (not by the Attorney's Docket number and any other number) or patent number, if patented. Please make sure that the related information is up to date.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

6. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Fujii et al. (Fujii), U.S. patent no. 6,140,836.

As per claim 1, Fujii teaches a method for minimizing power consumption by a circuit [fig. 1; col. 3, lines 1-5], the method comprising steps of:

determining whether a predetermined period of time has expired, said predetermined period of time being associated with a predetermined period of time to detect a transition of an input or an output of a pipelined circuit [col. 5, lines 41-60; col. 7, lines 59-63]; and performing a shut-down procedure on said pipelined circuit in response to said predetermined period of time expiring [col. 1, line 66-col. 2, line 13; col. 7, lines 29-32; col. 7, line 64-col. 8, line 6].

As per claim 2, Fujii teaches of detecting a transition at an input of said pipelined circuit [col. 5, lines 20-23, 41-55].

As per claim 3, Fujii teaches of performing a turn-on procedure on said pipelined circuit in response to detecting said transition at said input [col. 1, line 66-col. 2, line 13; col. 3, lines 1-5; col. 5, lines 41-60; col. 7, lines 3-8].

As per claim 4, Fujii teaches that pipelined circuit includes a plurality of stage circuits and said shut-down procedure comprises a step of sequentially suppressing power to each of said plurality of stage circuits starting from a first stage circuit of said plurality of stage circuits, said first stage circuit being connected to an input of said pipelined circuit [col. 7, lines 9-66].

As per claim 5, Fujii teaches that shut-down procedure is performed over multiple clock cycles, and said step of sequentially suppressing power further comprises suppressing power to one of said plurality of stage circuits after each of said multiple clock cycles [col. 7, lines 9-66].

As per claim 6, Fujii teaches that turn-on procedure further comprises a step of sequentially providing power to each of said stage circuits starting from said first stage circuit [fig. 2; col. 7, lines 9-66].

As per claim 7, Fujii teaches turn-on procedure is performed over multiple clock cycles, and said step of sequentially providing power further comprises providing power to one of said plurality of stage circuits after each of said multiple clock cycles [fig. 2; col. 7, lines 9-66].

As to claims 8-15 basically are the corresponding elements that are carried out the method of operating steps in claims 1-7. Fujii teaches the claimed method of steps. Therefore, Fujii teaches the claimed system for carrying out the method of steps.

Art Unit: 2115

As to claims 16-20, Fujii teaches the claimed method of steps. Therefore, Fujii teaches the claimed system to carry out the method of steps.

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Kaxiras et al., US publication no. 2002/0049918, teaches a method for removing power from caches lines that have been inactive for some period of time.
